I was on the ship when you were. I was OS (RD) 2 David Dankenbring. I took care of all the classified material on the ship. I had the small office across from the XO's office. I found out about 7 years ago about the mines while I was going to a class at a mine warfare school in Norfolk. I just retired a couple of years ago. Had 26 years and enjoyed it.

Boy does this website bring back memories. I have some of the same photos as on the site. By the way, where all the damage on the port side was exactly where my rack was and I was in it. Oh yes, I REMEMBER THE P250'S RUNNING ALL NIGHT, SLEEPING ON THE STARBOARD WING AND DRINKING PLUM JUICE, and the reefers going out. Keep in touch. I will sometime this winter dig out some of the pictures I have. The one of a ship you had up that you didn't know the name was the USS Yarnell.

OS1 David Dankenbring (ret.)

Dave,

I remember you, I was down with the XO more than I'd like.

I had a lot of fun putting up some of the stuff from the "last cruise" and have had a lot of email from shipmates. I'd be happy to help put up pictures on the web site if you can send them as digital files, either scanned in, or retaken with a digital camera. Anything you'd like to have captioned with them would help, too, since I don't remember everyone's name or face.
